DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 20-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Regarding claim 20, line 2, applicant should clarify what is intended by the magnetic layer being “coupled” to a conductive winding. In line 3, the structure of the “plurality of walls of insulating material disposed within the magnetic layer.” is unclear. There is no antecedent basis for “a median line of the magnetic layer generating a demagnetizing field.”

Regarding claim 24, line 2, applicant should clarify what is intended by the magnetic layer being “coupled” to a conductive winding. In line 3, the structure of the “plurality of gaps disposed within the magnetic layer.” is unclear. There is no antecedent basis for “a median line of the magnetic layer generating a demagnetizing field.”

Regarding claim 28, line 2, applicant should clarify what is intended by the magnetic layer being “coupled” to a conductive winding. In line 3, the structure of the “plurality of gaps disposed within the magnetic toroid.” is unclear. There is no antecedent basis for “a median line of the magnetic layer generating a demagnetizing field.”

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 20-27, as best able to be understood in view of the rejections under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JP 5-62123.

JP 5-62123 discloses a magnetic circuit [figure 5] comprising:

- a magnetic layer [8] "coupled to a magnetic winding;" and
- a plurality of walls/gaps [figure 5] disposed "within the magnetic layer" at positions perpendicular to a median line thereof.

JP 5-62123 disclose the instant claimed invention except for: the gaps providing a demagnetizing field.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made that the gapped configuration shown by JP 5-62123 would provide the demagnetizing effect.

The particular shape and arrangement of the walls/gaps would have been an obvious design consideration based on the specific application intended for the device.

5. Claims 28-29, as best able to be understood in view of the rejections under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over as applied to claims 20 and 24 above, and further in view of Casagrande [US 5,376,912].

JP 5-62123 disclose the instant claimed invention except for: the gaping/layer design being used in a toroid type winding.

Casagrande discloses a gapped core design for a transformer/inductor.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a toroidal gapped core for the winding design of JP 5-62123, as suggested by Casagrande, for the purpose of improving magnetic field characteristics.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 20-29 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

- Gardner [Pub # 2001/0050607], Gaud et al. [US 5,566,442] and Lazzari [US 5,648,884].
